【Notice of Further Event Postponement】

2020 International Electronic Circuits (Shanghai) Exhibition

Dear exhibitors:

According to "Notice on further strengthening the prevention and control of new coronavirus pandemic in key places, unites and groups" released by the central Chinese government, it states that all kinds of exhibitions will not be held temporarily. To ensure the health and safety of exhibitors and visitors and the need of epidemic prevention and control, by communicating with the National Exhibition and Convention Center (Shanghai), the 2020 International Electronic Circuits (Shanghai) Exhibition, which was postponed to June 22-24 2020, will be further delayed to Aug. 25-27 2020 at National Exhibition and Convention Center (Shanghai). The booked halls and booths remain unchanged. If at the said time the exhibition is still not allowed to open, 2020 International Electronic Circuits (Shanghai) Exhibition will be cancelled.

We sincerely regret any inconvenience brought by the delay of the exhibition due to the impact of the epidemic. During the period of postponement, we are planning a series of online promotion and advertisement events to drive the industry exchange and trading. We believe that China electronic circuits industry will embrace new opportunities with the implementation of 5G and New Infrastructure Investment. We will discover more excitements on the 2020 International Electronic Circuits (Shanghai) Exhibition

Thank you for your consistent participation and support, and we are looking forward to meeting you again!
